Conference Training Workshops

A special feature of the Fourth Biennial Conference will be the inclusion of three unique training opportunities. Two state of the art prevention interventions will be presented as well as a workshop on effective advocacy. We are especially proud of the Faculty assembled to lead these training sessions. These workshops are described below. Each requires an additional fee although we have endeavored to keep the costs as low as possible. The Center for Family and Community Studies is approved by the American Psychological Association to offer continuing education for Psychologists. The Center maintains responsibility for the program. Cosponsored by the Center for Family and Community Studies, University of Massachusetts, Lowell.

The Prevention of Depression: Current Methods and Future Directions

Faculty

Ricardo F. Muñoz, Ph.D. (University of California, San Francisco), Yu-Wen Ying, Ph.D. (University of California, Berkeley), Sergio Aguillar-Gaxiola, M.D., Ph.D. (California State University, Fresno), & Gerardo M. Gonzáles, Ph.D. (California State University, San Marcos)

Purposes

- To present the need for prevention efforts focused on depression
- To discuss a conceptual framework for prevention interventions
- To discuss the importance of including underserved populations, such as low-income, ethnic minorities, and non-English speaking persons in prevention projects
- To present a specific psychoeducational intervention, The Depression Prevention Course, which was evaluated in a randomized controlled trial
- To present later versions of the intervention as adapted to the treatment of depression in primary care settings, smoking cessation, and with injection drug users
- To propose a strategy to combine prevention and treatment efforts by screening clients to identify:
 1. individuals meeting criteria for major depression (to be referred for treatment)
 2. individuals at high risk for depression (candidates for prevention)
- To present automated screening and diagnosis methods to make routine screening feasible, including the use of speech recognition technology to serve preliterate persons or persons who speak languages other than English
